

To avoid extra charges, we ask that you please take the time to follow a few simple procedures to ensure your linens are returned free from damage.

Please note that any wax or mildew on the returned linen will result in extra cleaning charges at a minimum of $10 per unit. In cases where there is damage beyond repair you will be required to purchase the linen.

Extra charges will also apply to linen that looks like it has been used as a cleaning rag or requires additional disposal procedures.

In addition to wax or mildew, the following is a list of additional damages for which customers are held responsible:

Food stains and spills will normally come off with our standard laundry procedures so we ask that you do not attempt to wash or iron any of your linen prior to their return.
